

David Falcone, MS

David Falcone is the global head of Compliance for Merz Aesthetics. Compliance must play a big part in delivering trusted results through supporting leadership in embedding an ethical and risk-based decision-making culture. David's compliance programs focus on clear and concise guidance, operational efficiency and effectiveness, and data-driven priorities. His risk mitigation experience spans data privacy, sanctions and exports, commercial practices, anti-corruption, and environmental and social governance. David has industry experience in pharmaceuticals, higher education, and most recently in a family-owned medical aesthetics company with pharmaceutical and device products.
