

Margaret K. Feltz, MA, JD

Maggie Feltz leads Ethics and Compliance at Purdue Pharma L.P., where she sets strategic direction for the function and works to ensure the Company and its subsidiaries are informed of applicable regulations and laws. In her role, she guides the Company and its subsidiaries to the highest ethical standards in the face of complex regulatory, public health, and risk management situations. Maggie leads a multi-disciplinary team that proactively educates colleagues at all levels on business-sensitive ethics and compliance topics, and reactively manages concerns and potential issues. She is a key contact for the corporate monitor who is engaged with the Company to ensure compliance with a voluntary injunction under which the Company and its subsidiaries have voluntarily agreed to refrain from promoting opioid products to healthcare providers. Prior to joining Purdue, Maggie served as Compliance Counsel at Boehringer Ingelheim Pharmaceuticals, Inc. and practiced health care law at McDermott, Will & Emery. She is a 2001 graduate of Case Western Reserve University (Case) School of Law, where she received her J.D. She also holds an M.A. in Medical Ethics from Case and a B.A. in Bioethics from Wellesley College.